

SENATE VINDICATES EKERN OF CHARGES; SLAP AT M'GOVERN

GIVE INSURANCE COMMISSIONER CLEAN BILL OF HEALTH AND REFUSE ANDERSON'S APPOINTMENT.

FAITHFUL AND HONEST

Are the Terms Applied to Ekern in Resolution Presented by Committee While Governor's Charges are Branded "Untrue."

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Feb. 7.—After listening for two days to testimony in the McGovern-Ekern controversy, the state senate shortly before midnight settled two important questions for itself.

First, it vindicated Herman L. Ekern, in a majority report of fourteen findings, from charges of political activity brought by Governor McGovern.

Second, by a vote of 22 to 4, it refused to confirm the appointment of Lewis A. Anderson of Madison as insurance commissioner.

Exonerates Ekern.

After a three-hour wait in the senate chamber during the evening, a committee composed of Senators Bossard, Huston and Skogmo presented a majority report finding that the complaint against Commissioner Ekern is "untrue and without foundation in fact." The report did not pass upon the legal phases of the question, but merely upon the findings of fact in the case of the governor's removal order against Ekern.

The fourteen findings exonerate Ekern in the following language: "That the said Herman L. Ekern, commissioner of insurance, at all times since his appointment and qualification to said office has faithfully, honestly and ably discharged the duties of said office. That at no time during his incumbency in said office has he neglected the duties thereof, nor has he at any time been guilty of wilful or official misconduct or neglect of duty pertaining thereto."

To Minority Reports.

Two minority reports were presented, both containing the same idea. One was by Senator E. E. Brown of Waupaca, the other by Senator E. F. Kileen of Vernon. Both asked that the senate make no findings, until the case has been decided in the courts. Kileen defended the minority reports warmly, declaring it was infringing on the jurisdiction of the court to act at this time. For this reason he moved that the confirmation of L. A. Anderson's appointment be laid over two weeks.

Bossard and Huston vigorously defended the majority report, ultimately securing its adoption, 22 to 6.

Kileen's plea for delay on the confirmation was rejected by a viva voce vote. The adoption of the majority report was made by the following vote: Ayes—Ackley, Bishop, Bossard, Culbertson, Cunningham, Glenn, Huber, Huston, Kellogg, Linder, Martin, H. C. Monk, Randolph, Richards, Scott, Skogmo, Treadwell, True, Weissleder, White and Zophy—22.

Noes—Hoyt, Kileen, Martin A. E. Snover, Stevens and Tomkins—6. Paired—Burke and Perry.

Absent or not voting—Albers, Browne, Weigle.

The final vote was taken a few minutes before midnight, and soon as the Anderson appointment had been rejected, Senator Randolph moved for adjournment which was quickly carried.

Committee is Named.

The senate arose as a committee of the whole at 4:40 p. m. yesterday. Upon motion of Senator Martin the chairman was authorized to appoint a committee to compile the committee's findings. Chairman Scott appointed Senators Bossard, La Crosse, Huston, Mayville, and Skogmo. Mr. River Falls. Recess was taken until 7:30 p. m. when it was expected the committee would report. By the Martin resolution it was also understood that any other senators not on the committee were free to file findings of their own.

Prior to the adjournment, Senator Linder of Superior declared his belief that the commissioner had been completely exonerated. A statement he made, he said, with no desire to be unfair to the governor and with no intention of disrespect. He believed a spirit of haste had been manifested by the governor's side throughout the whole transaction, and suggested that the reasons given by the governor for issuing a removal order might not be the only motives thereof. Senator Linder added that he had observed few cases of public officers who had tried so scrupulously to keep out of politics as the present insurance commissioner, whose work in extending advanced forms of insurance legislation and caring for Wisconsin policy holders had been on an exceptionally high standard in this country. He declared there was nothing to show from the evidence adduced that there had been any real participation in politics by the commissioner.

Slap at Ayward. The closing of testimony yesterday afternoon was followed by a sharp debate over the propriety of allowing paid attorneys "tell the senate how they should act" as one senator friendly to the governor put it. Senators Browne and Kileen declared with vehemence that the senate was competent to form its own conclusions. Browne characterized Ayward's line of examination during the trial as full of "insulting insinuations," which in courts of law would BRING REBUKE IMMEDIATELY, AND FORGIVE A CHANCE FOR AYWARD TO INJECT PARTISAN AND POLITICAL ISSUES INTO HIS ARGUMENT WHICH HAD NO PLACE IN A PROCEEDING OF THIS KIND. BOSSHARD SAID THE SENATE WAS BROUGHT INTO BEING TO SEE THE ISSUES THEMSELVES AND TO BE FOUND ONLY BY THE MERITS OF BOTH SIDES TO THE CONTROVERSY.

Senators Bishop and Ackley spoke for adoption of the Bossard resolution to permit the attorneys to present their conclusion in the form of a summary up. Attorneys Olbrich and Ayward consumed an hour in this undertaking.

ROOT AMENDMENT IS DELAYED BY SENATE

Will Wait Until He Can Appear in Answer to Complaints Issued—Bill As to Raising Frigate Philadelphia.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Feb. 7.—There was a brief session of the Senate Committee on Oceanic Canals today considering the Root amendment to the present Panama canal bill. It was decided to postpone any action on the subject until Senator Root could give further argument.

Representative Garner in the house offered a resolution requesting the attorney general to furnish the committee with all papers by which the United States marshal of New York state was directed not to issue warrants for the arrest of John D. Archbold and other Standard Oil officials recently indicted.

Would Honor Heroes.

Congressman James Moore of Pennsylvania, today made an appeal to congress to make a sufficient appropriation to raise the old frigate Philadelphia that was sunk in the harbor of Tripoli by Stephen Decatur, in the early part of the last century during the war with that country. Brought about by the defiance of the United States to pay tribute to the Tripolitan pirates.

Was Captured.

The Philadelphia, a new frigate, sent to Tripoli to compel the natives to desist in their practice of levying tribute on all vessels traveling through the Mediterranean, was captured by the vessels of the pirates and towed into the harbor of Tripoli. Here it was practically dismantled, its crew taken ashore and made prisoners and a native crew placed on board the vessel.

Sunk Vessel.

Meanwhile the American flotilla under Commodore Preble, had captured a Tripolitan vessel which they renamed the Intrepid. Stephen Decatur, then a lieutenant in the flotilla, took command and on the night of February 22, without exciting suspicion, the vessel was loaded with tar and pitch balls and warped alongside the Philadelphia, suddenly captured it, put its crew to flight or death and then unable to sail out of the harbor with its burned it to the water's edge and escaped with his own vessel, which was equipped with oars, long sweeps, before the astonished natives could rally.

Was Honored.

For this act Decatur was promoted to Captain and in August of the same year led a division of the fleet in its attack on the Tripolitan fleet giving them a decisive defeat, followed by later attacks. He also took a prominent part in the war of 1812 commanding the U. S. frigate United States when it captured the English frigate Macedonian. Later he engaged in the final war with Tripoli and in 1815 brought about peace which ended all piratical attacks upon the flag of the United States by these sea scavengers.

Would Raise Vessel.

Representative Moore, urged that the Philadelphia be raised and given the same honors as bestowed on the Maine which was sunk in Havana harbor, and that the names of the brave men be recorded for their action. Just at this time Italy has offered to aid the United States in its work, having taken possession of the harbor of Tripoli and it could be accomplished now easily wing to the changes the Italians plan in the harbor.

John Paul Jones.

The act of bringing the body of John Paul Jones to Annapolis, was cited in defense of the demand on Mr. Moore and it was estimated that the cost would not exceed ten to fifteen thousand dollars.

Senator Smith of Michigan introduced a measure today asking for the real cause of the president's interference in the Nicaraguan affairs. Senators Root, La Follette, Cummings, Oliver and Snoot were named as a steering committee to handle matters in the senate.

The much criticised treasury order No. 5 came up today before the house committee. This measure prescribes that all internal revenue collections should be made in national banks and was explained as being merely an aid to merchants paying or chasing checks to avoid payment of exchange rates.

PHYSICIAN CHARGED WITH WIFE MURDER

Dr. Arthur B. Smith of Springfield, Ohio, Accused of Administering Cyanide.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Springfield, O., Feb. 7.—With the fixing of the date for trial, public interest has been revived in the case of Dr. Arthur B. Smith, who has been confined in the county jail here since last November, facing a charge of having murdered his first wife, Mrs. Florence Cavileer Smith. The trial, which will begin early next month, promises to be one of the most sensational of its kind that has taken place in this section of Ohio in many years.

When Florence Cavileer Smith died suddenly March 18 last the community was shocked, for she was said to have been in excellent health, but no suspicion was aroused until Dr. Smith, on October 1, married Miss Mabel Merchant, at her former home in Newton, Mass. Miss Merchant for several years was a nurse in the local hospital, and she was called in many cases by Dr. Smith. They were intimate friends before the first Mrs. Smith died.

On October 16 the county officials ordered an examination into the cause of the death of Mrs. Florence Cavileer Smith, and the body was exhumed. Dr. Coons, pathologist, reported that death was not caused by organic heart trouble, as 'stated by her husband and also stated in the death certificate. A chemical analysis of the stomach is said to have revealed unmistakable traces of cyanide.

As a result of the physicians' report the grand jury on November 21 returned an indictment against Dr. Smith. The indictment contained four counts. The first alleged that Dr. Smith administered cyanide in a cup of cocoa, the second charged that he administered cyanide with a hypodermic, while the third alleged that he administered an unknown poison with cocoa and the fourth that he gave his wife a poison with a hypodermic, the nature of which is unknown.

This word comes from Thomas Morley, who was sent to care for Von Falkenstein on his trip across the Atlantic. He is now in the hands of relatives and recovering his right mind.

TIME FOR INTRODUCING NEW BILL IS ADVANCED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

The committee announced that after that date all bills must come through committees. Nearly a hundred bills were noted on the calendar for committee hearing next week.

MEASURE TO LOWER COST OF LIVING IS INTRODUCED TODAY

Speaker Hull Proposes Bill Calculated to Find Direct Market for Farmer Without Middleman's Aid.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 7.—A direct move to lower the high cost of living, the first measure of its kind ever introduced in the Wisconsin legislature, came into the assembly this morning in the form of a bill introduced by Speaker Meritt Hull. It puts the consumer in the cities in direct communication with the farmer, county dealer and merchant.

Middleman's Profits.

In effect this bill would wipe out to a large degree the high profits now enjoyed by the middleman. Reliable statistics which Speaker Hull has in his possession disclose that farmers receive only 45 per cent of the retail price of their food products. The remaining 55 per cent is dissipated among the dealers and retailers profits in the cities, and in transportation. The object of the measure is to give the farmers the benefit of a direct system of marketing whereby they receive a higher price for their commodities, and at the same time giving the consumer a vast lower rate.

The method which has been worked out to accomplish this purpose is rather unique. It provides that the Industrial Commission shall make and publish a list of individuals who desire to purchase farm produce direct from farmers, creameries, cheese factories and county dealers. The Commission is authorized to advertise that the state of Wisconsin is prepared to furnish a means for direct marketing to the consumers in the cities.

Get Immediate Returns.

Any person desiring to deal direct with the farmer or county dealers for farm produce will have to file his application with the commission. The commission will then furnish suitable blanks and require the applicant to furnish references as to his honesty and ability to pay; to gather information in much the manner as mercantile agencies and installment houses ascertain the financial standing of farmers and patrons. This guarantees to the farmer, as far as possible, an immediate return for his produce. It guards against any hokuspokus game.

Upon compilation of this list of purchasers, the purchaser may make application to the commission. The names are listed in the circular, which can be obtained only by a citizen of Wisconsin. The names of the farmers who are to sell the produce are also listed. One of the names of possible purchasers whose honesty and ability to pay has been ascertained are listed. These consumers will be grouped so that a farmer can readily determine the nature of the produce which the consumer desires to purchase. Upon receiving direct list of consumers, the farmer will be enabled to communicate direct with the party who desires to buy, and the services of the commission will be no longer required so far as individual transactions are concerned.

Use Parcel Post.

"By means of the parcel post and express, farmers and country dealers will be able to sell their produce direct to the consumers at a much higher price, and the consumers will purchase it at a much lower price than under present conditions in large cities," said Speaker Hull today. "It will benefit the country merchant who will, by this process, be placed in direct communication with the people in the cities. In a small way this matter has already been worked out among creameries in Wisconsin very advantageously. The percentage of decrease in the amount paid for foodstuffs by the man in cities will be appreciable."

The bill provides that any person who obtains goods under false statement shall be held guilty under a statute now prescribed. A sum not exceeding two thousand dollars is appropriated to carry out the provisions of the act.

SECY. HILLES ENTERTAINS SUCCESSOR IN OFFICE TODAY

Washington, Feb. 7.—Joseph T. Murphy, chosen by President-elect Wilson to be his private secretary, was entertained at luncheon today by Secretary Hilles, private secretary to President Taft.

DO YOU REALLY KNOW WHAT YOU ARE BUYING?

"I am a judge of crosses," said the peasant, when he was sitting on a bench. Many of us would be apt to eat henlock under the impression that it was cross it we relied upon our own judgment.

In the same way your self-reliance may cause you to buy poor values in the belief that you recognize high quality. Blind buying is the form of dissatisfaction. It may also be one of the many reasons for the increased cost of living.

You can avoid dissatisfaction, lower to some extent your cost of living, and gain a truer familiarity with the values of the things you purchase by relying on the word of the man who is not in business for a day—the merchant who advertises in THE GAZETTE.

MILLING IN TRANSIT CASE BEFORE COURT

Railway Commission at Toronto Hearing Arguments on International Shipment Question.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 7.—A case of international interest, involving a question of freight rates and privileges, came up for argument before the Railway Commission here today. The point at issue is the recent vote of the commission cancelling proposed tariff changes by the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific roads, abolishing stopover privileges on international lumber shipments, except those destined exclusively to points in the United States. The question is essentially the same as that in the "milling in transit" controversy that has been threshed out in the United States courts. Herebefore the Canadian roads have accorded the privilege of forwarding at the through rate raw lumber from the shipping point to some intermediate point where it is manufactured, and then shipping it on again to its destination for a slight advance over the regular rate which would be charged for unbroken forwarding. It is this privilege which the Grand Trunk and the Canadian Pacific now propose to abolish.

New York, Feb. 7.—This afternoon James Purcell, who swore that for seventeen years he conducted a gambling resort in New York and paid regular tribute to the police during that period, gave the district attorney names, dates and amounts paid for protection to the police. James Costello, another gambler also gave valuable information that will be used in prosecuting the police officials guilty of collecting tribute from the gambling fraternity. He told of thousands of dollars paid the police. Police commissioner Waldo says that despite the efforts of District Attorney Whitman to prevent Walh's testimony, who confessed yesterday, from being given to the aldermanic committee, their investigation will continue without interruption.

GUGGENHEIM DIVORCE SUIT AGAIN IN COURT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 7.—Another chapter in the divorce suit of Mrs. Grace Brown Guggenheim against William Guggenheim was begun today when Judge Oscar M. Heard listened to arguments on a motion of Mrs. Guggenheim's attorneys to expunge from the records all proceedings which resulted in the granting of a divorce to Mrs. Guggenheim on the ground that the divorce was obtained by fraud. The divorce was obtained in this city in 1901 and for the past five years Mrs. Guggenheim has waged a futile legal fight to have the decree set aside on the ground that it was invalid because she was not at the time a legal resident of Chicago. Since the divorce both parties to the suit have remarried.

WAR REPORTS VIEWED WITH MUCH DOUBT BY ENGLISH WAR OFFICE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Feb. 7.—The reports from the various war centers are today viewed with considerable doubt as to authenticity by officials conversant with the war zone today. They conform most nearly to the reports that the various war departments desired issued and not to the real facts of the case. Turkish reports give that nation's fleet a victory to their fleet over the advance of the Bulgarian forces through Gallipoli while the Bulgarians claim a victory. The Bulgarian war office also reports that the Turkish advance from Chatalaga into the interior was repulsed with heavy losses by the Turks and that the bombardment of Adrianople continues unabated.

SHOE LAST TRUST IS INVESTIGATED

Government Takes Hand in Matter and Starts Action Relative to Combination Charges.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 7.—"The boot and shoe lasts trust" fixing, it is alleged, the price of practically every last sold in the United States, was taken up here today by the federal government, in quick time, immediately following the calling of the civil suit of the anti-trust suit against the Krenzier-Arnold-Hinge last companies and numerous other last manufacturers, with whom it was allied by agreement. United States District Attorney Arthur J. Tuttle entered and agreed ad cree terminating licensed agreements insofar as the price of unpatented lasts are concerned and dissolving the club to which the alleged violation of the Sherman law was accomplished.

The decree in effect lays down the broad principle that it is unlawful to tie together patented and unpatented articles so as to fix the price of the unpatented commodity. Neither the government's petition nor the decree question the right of the patentee to fix the price of the patented last. The defendant manufacturers, it is declared, own 75 to 80 per cent of all shoe and boot lasts in the United States, and thus dominate or control, so far as price is concerned, the entire interstate commerce. The government's petition is signed by Attorney General Wickersham and others and was founded by United States Attorney Clyde I. Webster.

JUDGE STEVENS WILL NOT ISSUE ORDER IN THE EKERN MATTER

GOVERNOR MUST START QUO WARRANTO PROCEEDINGS TO PRESENT INSURANCE COMMISSIONER.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

NO INJUNCTION ISSUED

Granted to Insure Commissioner—Sought to Enjoin McGovern From Ousting Him From Office.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 7.—Judge E. Ray Stevens, formerly a Janesville resident, of the circuit court, today denied the plaintiff, Herman Ekern, the permanent injunction asked with restraining Governor McGovern from ousting him from office and also decided that quo warranto proceedings are necessary if Governor McGovern would dismiss Ekern from office. Coming as this does in the face of the senate's stand on the matter, by refusal to name Anderson, McGovern's appointee for the office, as the insurance commissioner, the case is much mixed. McGovern refused the right to recognize Ekern's claim for protection.

The court held that it was not empowered to determine the validity of the appointment of McGovern and that Ekern could retain office until the governor ousted him legally by quo warranto proceedings. Many cases were cited in consideration of the stand of the court.

The court held that the rule was well established that it had no jurisdiction to seek to coordinate any department of the government which was clearly imposed and defined into the jurisdiction of the Governor and that he was responsible to the people and not to the court for his actions.

It also held that the court had issued the restraining order only when superintendence of public property was sought and appointee Anderson were seeking to gain entrance to the office of the insurance commissioner by force and violence instead of resorting to more peaceable methods. That it did not then think it overstepped its authority in seeking to restrain the defendant McGovern from seating his appointee Anderson by force rather than by legal methods.

This discussion in other words places it up to the Governor to take some legal action to place his appointee in office rather than to enforce his appointment by force. It also fails to give Ekern a standing in any action in court.

The decision coming as it does on top of the Senate vote last night, complicates matters decidedly. McGovern, it is understood, will continue to appoint Anderson as insurance commissioner and seek his appointment confirmation by the state senate. Meanwhile the senate has a bill under consideration to consolidate the office with that of another.

ECHO OF EKERN CASE FOUND IN NEW BILL

Would Prohibit Any Office-holder From Taking Part in Political Campaign.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Feb. 7.—Among the bills introduced in the legislature today was one which, if passed, would prohibit any office-holder in the state from taking an active part in a political campaign, being a member of any campaign committee or political manager for any candidate. The violation is to be considered a felony and punishable by fine and imprisonment. This is a direct move on the part of McGovern's friends relative to the recent Ekern move and his subsequent removal from office for political activity.

A bill appropriating fifty thousand dollars for the Wisconsin exhibit at the Panama exposition was also introduced. One bill treats with the street car question and prohibits taking more than two passengers on board at one time after all seats are occupied.

A measure cutting down the appropriation for forestry and for the legislative reference library were also presented.

Adjutant General Boardman held a long conference with Governor McGovern today. No information as to the nature of the conference was given out. It gave rise to a rumor that the Governor intends to take possession of the office of the insurance commissioner by military force if necessary.

ONE PER CENT CHARGE IS ILLEGALLY MADE

Town of Porter Taxpayers Pay Over $100 Which Could Not Have Been Lawfully Collected.

What will Treasurer James Norum of the town of Porter do with over $100 of the 1912 taxes which he has illegally collected? This is the question which is puzzling the township supervisors and clerk in Porter, and the only wise solution seems to be to pay back the money to the taxpayers.

It seems that Mr. Norum in collecting the taxes this year made a charge of one per cent for collection fee in accordance with a resolution passed at the town meeting last spring. He was aware of the fact that the law stated that no penalty shall be charged before Feb. 1, but had been advised to go ahead and make the one per cent collection notwithstanding.

Practically all of the Porter taxes have been paid in and the taxpayers have been charged the collection fee. No one made any protest until toward the latter part of January when one or two declared that this amount could not be rightfully collected. Mr. Norum then set about to investigate the matter and set right by County Clerk W. Lee, who showed him the law and made clear that no action at the town meeting could set aside the statute provision.

Town of Porter taxpayers will doubtless hurry to demand their rebate. Should they prefer to let the money remain in the town treasury the township will be that much ahead. According to the law the treasurer should be paid a salary instead of the old method of fees.

Porter is not the only district in the county that has a difficulty of this sort. The city of Beloit paid a half a per cent fee on taxes placed after the middle of January and ran against a similar snag.

PILES ARE DRIVEN FOR BRIDGE PIERS

Coffer Dam Will Be Built for Cement Work as Soon as Weather Permits.

The preliminary work for the building of one side of the upper railroad bridge is nearly done as the piles to the three new piers have been driven and work is being done on the three original piers. When the weather permits a coffer dam will be built around the piles and the enclosed space filled with cement. The bridge is being built in an interesting manner; because of the heavy traffic which passes over these tracks, one side of the bridge is being built at the present time. Both the St. Paul and the Northwestern are using the same track on the north side of the bridge, causing great inconvenience to the workmen. The span work on the south side of the bridge has been cut away except the girders on top of the spanwork. These will be replaced with new ones which are nine feet thick. Stone slabs, weighing nine tons apiece, are to be the foundation of the roadbed. They will be set at an angle and the space filled with sand. The tracks will be built upon this foundation. The bridge will be the finest in this section of the country and able to withstand the heavy traffic of the two railroads. Both of the railroads have enormous amount of trains passing over this bridge and because of the increase in weight of the trains, the idea of bridge was necessary. The idea of having a stone and sand roadbed was to do away with practically all the vibration caused by the heavy trains.

DELINQUENT TAXES

TOTAL $12,161.21

Personal and Real Estate Taxes Paid in To Date Amount to $201,649.25

—Income Taxes Total $14,018.96.

Delinquent taxes for the year 1912, total to $12,161.21. Of the total amount of taxes to be raised on real estate and personal property—$212,810.46—the sum total of $201,649.25 had been paid into the city treasury. The amount of income tax paid in is $14,018.96. This represents not the amount of income tax levied, but the amount of cash remaining after deducting from it the amounts for payments of personal property taxes. The city will receive seventy per cent of the income tax paid in cash, the county twenty per cent, and the state ten per cent. In assessing taxes on realty and personal property for the year past no allowance was made for the probable income from the tax on incomes. The income tax is supposed to offset the loss to the city what it loses through the removal of personal property from the assessment rolls, but whether it accomplishes that purpose is yet to be determined.

THE LAW TO BE TESTED.
The first move on the part of the recallers is to verify the names on the list, which are questioned, and if successful in doing this they will then be in position to go into court and find out whether the other points in dispute are legal or not. The men responsible for the law made a mistake in not defining its conditions
so clearly that there would be no cause for question. As they failed to do this, it becomes necessary to have the courts interpret, and the decision finally rendered in the Janesville case will apply to all cities—under commission rule—in the state.
The law, as construed by the re-callers, would be a farce, for elections would follow each other in such rapid succession that all other kinds of public business would be suspended.
The Oshkosh Northwestern has been a radical reform organ, since it flopped from Spooner to La Follette, a few years ago. In discussing the Janesville recall, editorially, the paper has this to offer. It will be noticed that the intent of the law is defended.

"The proposed recall of the mayor and both councilmen at Janesville has struck a serious snag, in the shape of an opinion by the city attorney that the state law does not permit the recall of three city officials at the same time, that sufficient cause for a recall must first be shown by those proposing the recall, and that one-third the number of the last registered vote must sign petitions demanding a recall. With none of these requirements have the recallists of Janesville complied, and as a consequence the city clerk has declined to issue the necessary order for a special election to decide the demanded recall.
The only recourse left for the recall promoters is to secure a mandamus order from the court, or, failing in this, to start the whole procedure
over, preparing their recall petitions
so they will apply to only one city official at a time.

"The Janesville recall advocates are naturally in a quandary, having prepared an opposition city ticket and gathered a campaign fund to carry out their purpose of electing a new city administration. They imagined they were to have easy sailing, but have suddenly discovered the recall is not so easy as it looks. Instead of offering a chance for a disgruntled faction of citizens to overturn the city administration on short notice, they find the recall is hedged about with safeguards and checks to prevent just such a plan as they had in mind. As a measure of relief for a genuinely ill or obnoxious city administration it can be made effective,
but there must be a strong public sentiment back of the recall move, good and sufficient cause must be shown for a recall, and even then the move must be aimed at one city official at a time.

"Apparently the recall feature of the commission plan is not going to be as troublesome, as some have professed to fear. Under the commission system a city official may be recalled, but a small faction cannot start such disturbance or put a city to unnecessary expense. Which more than ever is a reminder to the voters of cities governed by commission rule to be exceedingly careful in the election of only good and reliable men, at the start. The recall offers a remedy for mistakes, but it has wisely been made not too easy to start a recall."

THE MORTGAGE LIFTERS.
"Report of the Department of Agriculture places the number of hogs on farms in the United States on January 1 at 61,000,000. These figures mean something more than an enormous mass of grunting, squealing pigs.
They mean millions of dollars to the business of the country.

"No account can be taken of the millions of animals prepared for local consumption by farmers and retail dealers. The census notes only those prepared in the large wholesale establishments and packing houses. Of these, the census of 1910 shows that in the previous year 33,870,000 hogs were prepared, the cost of which was $483,384,000. When these animals came into the packing markets they made 3,428,000 tons of freight; while the finished product going out to consuming points equaled 2,600,000 tons.
It is impossible to make anything like an accurate estimate of the ton-mile freight, but it can be readily seen these animals play no mean part in railroad earnings.
"The farm value now is $603,000-000. By the middle of June their numbers will be largely augmented.
The rate of increase is almost equal to rabbits. Any one who has not been out of school long enough to forget how to work out a problem in arithmetical progression will find some astonishing facts in working out the increase of one animal in ten years, counting the first year's increase at seven, which is ultra-conservative.
This remarkable reproductive power and quick growth, which places the animal on the market within twelve months, makes it of vital importance in food supplies.
"Farmers find it a source of revenue. There is never a time when the hog cannot be sold at a profit; and there is no better machine to condense the corn into a more valuable product. The western states which raise the most of them are the most prosperous. They have lifted the mortgages and helped to build up the farmers' bank accounts. There is hardly a farm in the country that could not profitably raise large numbers of them, and the only pity is that farmers are so slow to realize the fact. They could add millions to the wealth of the country and to their own bank accounts by extending this industry."

The New York correspondent forgot to mention the fact that counting hogs in advance, is a good deal like counting chickens before they are hatched, and he probably never heard of the hog cholera. There are some drawbacks in the hog business.

The La Follette forces, led by the Madison Journal, are out to down Superintendent Cary, and no stone will be left unturned to accomplish their purpose. Mr. Cary gained the ill-will of the state university by exposing extravagance and the reckless waste of money. He is about the only friend that the people have at court,
and for this reason, if for no other,
he should be retained. The state is cursed with the most reckless administration, in its history. Money is demanded for all sorts of expenditures, and granted, without question or investigation. Look over some of the budgets now pending, and you will be startled. The state needs not only one, but a dozen Carys, to put some sort of a check on extravagance.

The Dane county board voted against building a county sanatorium, claiming that it was not warranted in incurring a debt of $35,000 for that purpose. Dunn county, after appropriating $16,600, found that more money would be needed, and so the work is likely to be delayed in that county, until the June meeting of the board. The project would be more popular, throughout the state, if it provided for the care and treatment of cases in the incipient stages of the disease.

How to be Beautiful.
(By Beatrice Bonehead.)
Be born with a pretty face and keep it all your life.

Do not grow old. This is one of the first principles of remaining young and beautiful.

If your hair is coming out, keep it in a paper sack and have a switch made of it. Then you can always say your hair is all your own.

Embell your face with white Ala-bamine and then put the rouge on top of that.

The best way to tighten your corset laces is to put the corset on, tie the strings to the leg of the bed and then jump out of the window. In that way you can get one of those see, but beautiful to look at.

which curve upward, you can make it

time it will begin to grow downward

AT WORK TO VERIFY NAMES IN QUESTION

Recallists Securing Affidavits From Men Whose Eligibility is in Doubt, That They Are Qualified.

A committee of the recall faction supplied with the list of 240 names crossed off the recall petitions by the city clerk as alleged unqualified electors, began a canvass of the city this morning to secure affidavits from the men to the effect that they were qualified to sign the lists.

The signatures of the men whose qualifications are challenged will be secured to three other petitions for the recall of Councilmen Fathers, Miltimore and Cummings and accompanied by the affidavits of each of the men will be filed as supplementary to the regular petitions.

It is the intention of the recallists to make the list of signatures acceptable to the city clerk if possible as far as the eligibility of the signers as electors is concerned. Then they will be in a position to take up the other points in the controversy.

The question of recalling the three officials at one time and the matter of the charges preferred, in the circuit court where they will doubtless seek a writ of mandamus.

It would not be feasible for those seeking a recall to start action for such a writ when the signatures on the petitions were challenged as insufficient. It is possible, however, that some court action will be necessary to show that enough of the signers are entitled to have their names appear on the petitions.

All three petitions, the one for the recall of Councilman Cummings, the one for Mayor Fathers, and the one for Councilman Miltimore were certified to by City Clerk Hamarland
at the same time, although the time allowed the clerk for this purpose did not expire until yesterday for the Fathers' petition, and until tomorrow for the petition against Miltimore.

The grounds for declaring them insufficient to warrant the calling of an election were the same for all with the exception that there were 240 signatures of alleged non-voters on the Miltimore and Cummings papers, and 242 on the Fathers papers.

Heart to Heart Talks By JAMES A. EDGERTON

YOUNG AT FIFTY.

Are we to get rid of the obsession
of old age?

We have been in the habit of thinking men or women old at fifty, and perhaps our thinking and their own has had much to do with their growing old before their time.

A man at fifty should be at the very prime of his powers. He should have twenty-five or thirty good years of work ahead of him.

Recently a number of eminent German scientists, artists and others gave their opinions on this subject.

One said that a man at fifty is not even beginning to grow old.

Another stated that the man of fifty is of highly superior intellectual worth. On account of his reliability, steadiness, experience and rational living he possesses countless physical and moral advantages over a younger man.

The president of the Royal academy asserted that artists do their best work between the ages of forty and fifty.

With right thinking and living, sane
and wholesome exercise, elasticity, perennial interest and constant occupation at congenial tasks, the normal man and woman should be useful, happy and hale up to eighty, ninety or even the century mark.

There is every reason to believe that the future man and woman will be so.

Why cannot we as individuals anticipate the future man and woman?

There is an adage that a man is only as old as he feels.

Why not stop thinking of old age?

Some trees live for thousands of years. They are not obsessed by old age thoughts.

Faith, hope and work constitute a trinity that will keep us young.

Retain the forward outlook.
Avoid excesses.

We can have excesses in physical toil as well as in eating, drinking or gratifying the passions. Seek the golden mean.

The soul and not the body is the senior member in the human individuality, and the soul is ever young.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM Baking Powder

Purity in food, lower cost of living—these are the demands of the day.

Pure food is health, and health is economy itself. We cannot have health without healthful food.

The most healthful foods are the quickly raised flour foods—biscuit, cake, muffins, crusts and other pastry, when perfectly made from wholesome ingredients.

Dr. PRICE'S baking powder makes these foods in specially attractive, appetizing and wholesome form, and for both economic and hygienic reasons, such food should be more largely substituted for meat in the daily diet.

But bear in mind that alum, or unwholesome baking powder,
can never make pure, wholesome food.

About Umbrellas.
Eyeglass wearers have long since complained that people are careless with umbrellas. Many pairs of glasses have been knocked off and broken by persons who selfishly refuse to move an umbrella so as to allow other people to easily pass. A few even persist in dangerously spinning an umbrella along a crowded street, endangering the glasses and sometimes eyes of passing walkers.

To Buy Roller: At the meeting of the county highway committee yesterday the bids for road rollers were received and the Austin-Western company was awarded the contract. The equipment will be delivered to the county in time for use on the roads
this spring.

The prices quoted in our double page advertisement which appeared in The Gazette last Thursday hold good until the 15th of February. Hundreds of items were marked at very low prices. It will pay you handsomely to attend this sale now. You can save money on whatever you need.

Our Corset Department.

There is no article of woman's apparel that lends so much to her appearance as the corset.
A good fitting corset that gives the figure a perfect-fashion - contour is absolutely essential to a pre-possessing form.
Corset-making of today is a science and the innumerable shapes offered are calculated to remedy
the defects in form and enable women to attain the symmetrical shape so essential to a stylish figure. It is necessary, however, to have an expert to fit you and not choose your corset blindly. We employ experts who have made intelligent corset fitting a study, and carrying as we do, the largest corset stock in Janesville we can give you that
"corset satisfaction" so necessary to all women of fashion. In the new the new 1913 styles we have all the new lengths and styles. We also show
many exclusive styles
and shapes not on sale
elsewhere. In choosing your next corset let us show you how well we can fit you. Why pay fancy prices to canvassers
for supposed to be made-to-your-measure - corsets.
Most of them are simply regular stock sizes slightly altered.

WE claim a good deal of merit for the pro- ducts of our bakery and they are every bit as good as we claim. We use the best materials, modern methods, skill- ful workmen, and insist upon absolute cleanli- ness -

A Lenten Sermon

By REV. JAMES M. GRAY, D. D., Dean of the Moody Bible Institute,
Chicago

TEXT.—Then Jesus, six days before the passover, came to Bethany where Lazarus was, whom he raised from the dead.—John 12:1.

We are now in the season of Lent, so-called from the period of the year when the days begin to lengthen. It is a period of forty days beginning with Ash Wednesday, and continuing until Easter, observed by some churches as commemorative of the forty days of our Saviour in the wilderness. It is the time in which particular emphasis is laid in preaching upon the substitutionary obedience and sufferings of our Divine Redeemer, and when in thought, we follow him from the temptation in the wilderness to the triumphant issue of the resurrection morning.

In harmony with this, our present sermon deals with one of the tenderest events of a social nature occurring in the last week of his earthly life.

"Then Jesus six days before the passover came to Bethany." Then he did it. If you would understand the significance of the word "then," you must go back to the previous chapter, which tells us that all the people were gathering to Jerusalem for the passover, and all animated more or less by the thought as to whether he would come to the feast, for the chief priests and pharisees had given a commandment that if any man knew where he were, he should show it, that they might take him. Then it was that he came. Before this on different occasions he had hidden himself from his enemies, not through cowardice or fear, but because his hour had not yet come, he was not yet ready to be offered, the Scripture had not yet been fulfilled. Now, however, the crisis is approaching, and he advances consciously to meet his cruel death. "If ever there were a calm, voluntary, deliberate walking up to death, it was this last visit of Jesus into Judea."

Sympathy With Jesus.

But why is it that he seeks out this little village two miles from Jerusalem, and spends so much of his intervening time there? Perhaps the following words supply the reason, since we read that Lazarus was there, whom he had raised from the dead. Jesus loved Lazarus and his household, and, doubtless, like ourselves, he liked to be as much as possible with those he loved. If we knew we were soon to die, with whom would we like to pass the closing moments of our life, if not with those who understood us best and who sympathized with us the most? Jesus, remember, was a man. Not merely a man, but yet a man—a perfect man. And it is just such touches of his humanity that bring him so near to us, and solace us with the thought that in him we have an high priest who can be touched with a feeling of our infirmities.

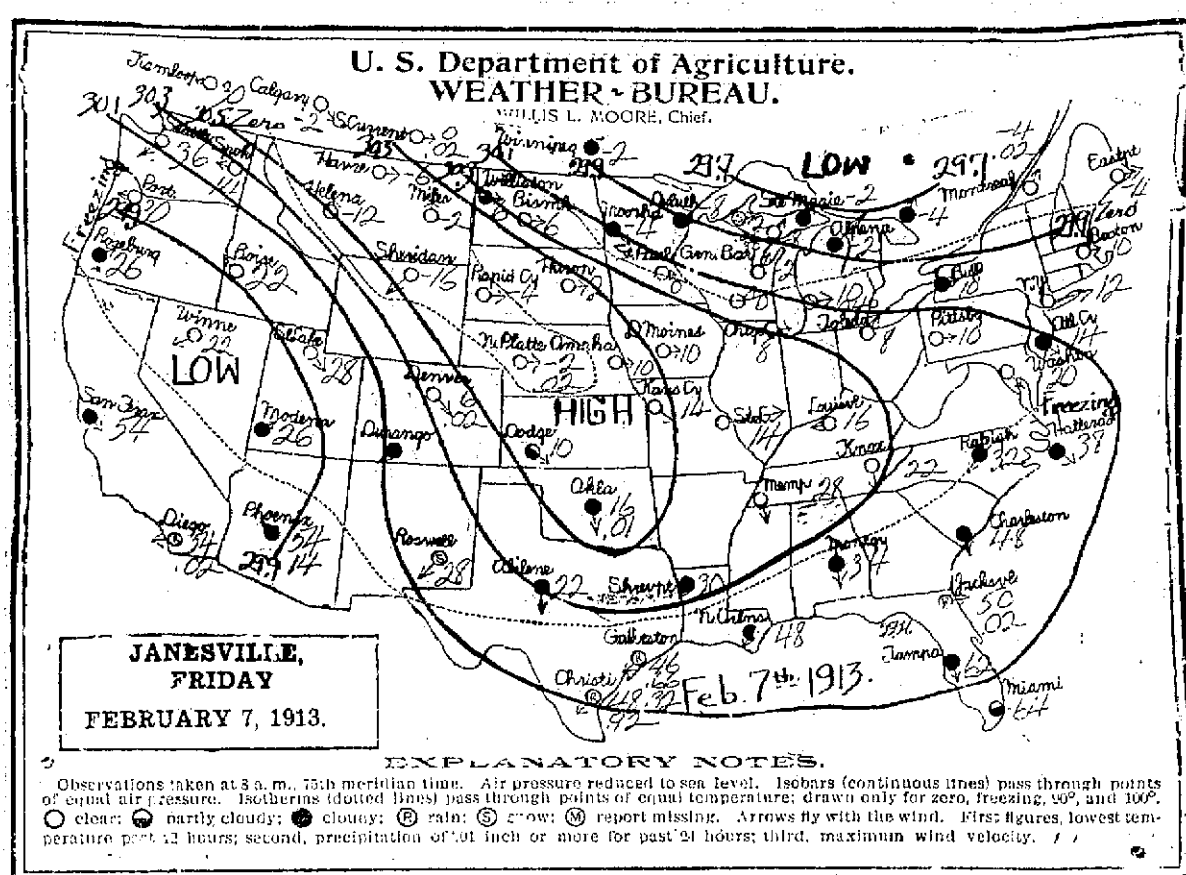

But what about our sympathy for Jesus, now that we are sure of his sympathy for us? Does he ever find a Bethany in our homes and hearts? He is still in some sense exposed to the persecution of his enemies in the earth, for the kingdoms of this world have not yet become the kingdoms of our God and of his Christ. An apostle speaks of some who "crucify our Lord afresh, and put him to an open shame." If this be so, then he still looks for a quiet haven, and a manifestation of love from those whom he hath quickened when they were dead in trespasses and sins. Is it so with us?

A Strong Bible Proof.

I cannot leave this verse without calling attention to it as one of the most convincing arguments of the truth of Christianity. What significance there is in these words: "Bethany, where Lazarus was which had been dead, whom he raised from the dead." There is evidence that this gospel was known in Jerusalem at least within seventy years after this raising of Lazarus occurred. There are grounds for believing, indeed, that it was published within thirty to forty years of that date. Surely there must have been persons then, and there, who could personally have testified to the falsity of the whole thing if it were false? We cannot imagine any such event occurring in the neighborhood of Chicago, for example, not longer ago than that, and our being unable to find anybody to deny it from personal knowledge, if it were to be denied? But has the resurrection of Lazarus ever been denied? Let the silence of the Jewish nation, and the Gentile world answer. So far from the enemies of Jesus disbelieving this mighty fact, they so entirely believed that they consulted how they might put Lazarus to death, because that by reason of him many of the Jews went away and believed on Jesus.

UNJUST CRITICISM FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

County Superintendents Sent Out Reports in Regard to Recent Investigations of Public Affairs Board.

At th recent meeting of the county superintendents of the state a report of a special committee composed of George A. Bassford, Door county, G. J. Zimmerman, Racine county, and L. S. Cheney, Baraboo county, was unanimously adopted in which is made a statement defending the Wisconsin rural schools against the criticism made by the New York investigators to the state board of public affairs. The report copies of which have been received by Supt. Antisdell are as follows:

"We, your committee, appointed to report upon the Preliminary Report of the Results of Field Study Reported to the State Board of Public Affairs by the Training School for Public Service after careful examination of this preliminary report and of information gathered from exact conversation with those superintendents whose superintendency districts were investigated, do report upon the Preliminary Report in general but more particularly upon the county superintendency phase, as follows:

"1. The school men of Wisconsin welcome at any time a thorough and comprehensive investigation of the state of affairs in their public schools directed toward raising the efficiency of said schools.

"2. Wisconsin is well aware of the many educational problems of a serious and perplexing nature. These problems have not been ignored but have been frankly faced, intelligently studied and solutions proposed by our own people. The school system is constantly changing because, social conditions are changing, hence we shall always have educational problems.

"4. Investigation of school problems, to be of value, should, we feel, be conducted by men of national reputation as educators, men of balance and judgment and experience, who would give to us a comprehensive and properly balanced judgment of our educational system.

"4. It should be borne in mind that aside from the head of the investigating committee and his assistant statistician who are expert accountants, the members of this committee are men who are young in the business of education, and are novices in this sort of investigation, and are students, if we are properly informed, in the Bureau of Research on their first piece of practice work. The work of this committee shows their unfamiliarity with country schools and country school conditions.

"5. This work of investigation was carried on in fewer than one-half of the counties of the state. In a number of the counties visited were extremely brief, sometimes scarcely more than the period between trains. We submit to fair-minded people that an attempt to attach any serious weight to the results of such investigation is to over do it.

"(a) The most thorough investigation made was in relation to financial affairs, particularly in three centers in the North, namely, in the regions where the township system was just going out of existence through a change in the law.

"(b) In a majority of cases where the reader of this report would be led to believe that deductions had been drawn from numerous and typical cases the instances cited in the report were not deductions whatsoever, but extreme instances of their kind.

"6. We are not questioning the motives of the State Board of Public Affairs, nor of the Bureau of Municipal Research. We merely speak with respect to the efficiency of the work done and the conditions under which it was done and express our judgment of its value.

"7. We regard it as deplorable from the point of view of public welfare and the fair name of our state that the results of this investigation were not first given to the legislature and judiciously handled by that body of representative citizens, but on the contrary it was spread broadcast not only in the state of Wisconsin, but over the country at large long before the legislature met. Newspapers and educational journals all over the United States have as a result pictured a sorry condition of Wisconsin schools which we feel does not exist." Signed by the Committee.

RUSH ICE HARVEST AS COLD CONTINUES

Lower Store House Will be Filled by Tonight and Scene of Work Will Be Transferred to Goose Island.

Judging from the amount of ice that is being harvested by the City Ice Company at the present time Janesville is in no danger of an ice famine. Over a hundred men are employed above the dam in filling the lower ice house. The small ice house is already filled and the second storehouse will be crowded to capacity by tonight.

The ice is from ten to fourteen inches in thickness, the average being about twelve. The recent thaws and snows have caused a layer of poor ice which is about three inches thick. The work of scraping and cutting is now being done in the channel of the river.

When the lower ice house is filled work will be started on the house situated on "Goose Island." The ice that will be taken to fill this house will be cut in the small bay south of the island. This was the field cut over for the smaller house. The ice here is perfectly transparent and with the increasing cold weather will be of an extra fine quality.

The three houses combined will hold about ten thousand tons and while the subject of ice and coolness as pleasures are farthest from the thoughts of the Janesville citizens at the present time, of all this harvest there will be little left when the hot days of summer are over.

About a dozen men are employed harvesting ice for the Buob's brewery at Spring Brook. The ice is very thick here as the water is stagnant and very shallow.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

There is no contentment with out congenial and useful occupation. Happy is the one who is skilled to do something very well.

SOME DISHES FOR THE FIRELESS COOKER.

The up-to-date fireless cooker, with its aluminum lining and substantial dishes of the same material, is not an expensive utensil, for the efficiency of good work in the "heart of the house." There always goes with the cooker a reliable cook book, which gives concise and clear directions for preparing all kinds of food for the cooker.

The housewife may, after breakfast, get the noonday meal ready and put it into the fireless cooker, go out for a morning call, or spend the morning free from kitchen care as she pleases, knowing that she will have a well-cooked meal when the time comes to serve it.

The Sunday dinner and church-going problem is settled when a cooker is installed, as the most delicious roasts of meat will be cooking at home while you are enjoying Divine worship, without a worry that the roast will burn.

The radiators, which are an important part of a fireless cooker, may be made so hot that meat will be beautifully brown, bread, puddings and cake can be baked as well as in an oven.

For cereals, and all breakfast foods that need long cooking, and which are so often served undercooked because of lack of time and also fuel, the cooker is ideal.

If one has an invalid in the house who needs warm food and cold drinks, both may be kept equally well at the same time, if one has a cooker of two compartments.

Pot Roast, With Potatoes.—Sear a three-pound roast on all sides in a skillet. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and put it into the cooker. Utensil. Pour over a good pint of boiling water, and if the meat is not very fat add a little hot fat from tried-out suet. When boiling hot, remove at once from the stove and place in the cooker, cooking three and a half hours, using two radiators. One hour before serving, boil the potatoes five minutes, or long enough to heat them through, lift the caloric lid and slip in the potatoes as quickly as possible. Of course, they should be drained and put into the broth at the side of the meat, where they can finish cooking.

One Way of Killing a Flea.

"To kill a flea," says the Scientific American, "the surest way would be to place him on one of those impregnable plates used in naval warfare, and confine him there by means of cables fastened securely to each of his several legs; then to train upon him (from as near a distance as would be feasible), an irresistible projectile from one of those twenty-inch guns."

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have some good linen napkins which were spoiled by being washed before fruit stains were taken out. Can you suggest something to remove these stains?

ANSWER: Wash the napkins in warm water, and if the stains are not removed, wash them in a solution of one part of soda ash to ten parts of water. This will remove the stains.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—How long should a six-months-old baby's dress be? (2)—What will be the style and color of young ladies' dresses this season? (3)—Please give me a good doughnut recipe.

ANSWER: (1)—Most mothers are now making the dresses short for quite young babies. (2)—The semi-princess dress is much worn. Skirts are draped. Neck may be high or low and sleeves short or long, as preferred. The soft materials are much worn, with silks, satins and crepes. Velvet is much used for trimming. Various shades of red are being shown in the new models, but any becoming color is being worn.

(3)—Doughnuts: Here is an excellent recipe that I use very often.—Take 2 eggs and 1-1/2 cups sugar; beat them together. Then take a cup of sweet milk, a little salt, 3 cups melted lard or butter, and add 2 cups baking powder and enough flour so it will roll out nicely without sticking. Fry in about two pounds fresh lard. Watch them closely, turn them right and don't let them stand to soak up grease. This makes about 34 doughnuts.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please give me a recipe for Devil's Food Cake.

ANSWER: Devil's Food: Grate 3-4 cake sweet chocolate into a bowl, stir in 1-1/2 cup boiling water and 1 level teaspoon soda. Let this set. Cream 2 cups brown sugar, 1-2 cup butter, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup sour milk, 1-1/2 to 3 cups flour, 2 scant teaspoon baking powder. Stir in chocolate, mix thoroughly and bake.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—I am a young man of 22, good looking, no bad habits and a stranger here. Would like to get acquainted with some real nice girl. How can I do it?—How should a young man choose his words when he proposes to a girl?

ANSWER: (1)—Go to church and join the young people's societies. Plenty of nice girls there. (2)—That will depend on circumstances. If you love her tell her so and ask her to be your wife.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"I know not where His islands lift Their rounded palms in air; I only know I cannot drift Beyond His love and care."

There are some people in this world who fail of their highest usefulness to themselves and others because they never plan ahead, never bring the power of forethought to bear on the problems and critical situations in their lives.

And there are other people in the world who fail because they plan too much.

"Oh dear! I don't know what to do," cried an unhappy young woman, whom circumstances had driven into a corner. "I don't know which way to turn. I feel as if my life were a terrible tangle and every move I made only tangled it up the more."

"Then why not try letting it alone, dearie," said an older woman, gently. "I've found out that sometimes if you do that, time and circumstances slowly untangle things for you, and by and by you wake up some morning and find everything all coming straight. If you've done all you can, dear, don't worry; just let it go at that and give time a chance."

There are troubled moments in all our lives when we see plainly that the only thing to do is to rise and cut the gordian knot of our troubles with some prompt, decisive action which looms up as the right and best thing to do.

And then there are other times when we cannot see anything plainly; when pitfalls seem to be on all sides; when life has become so complicated and so tangled that we are sick and weary of the whole business, and when we cannot cut the gordian knot because we have no sword. And these moments are infinitely harder than those which demand action, for action, however hard and unpleasant, is always a relief.

But courage, comrade, don't be utterly discouraged. Remember that there is still one course left to you—you can wait and see what time and the flux of circumstances will do for you. And as the wise friend promised, some morning you may wake up and find that everything is coming out quite straight. It has often happened so to me. And if you will look back on your own life I think you will find it has been so with you in the past.

"We are never without a pilot," says Emerson, "when we know not how to steer and dare not hoist a sail, we can always drift. The current knows the way if we do not."

It is a beautiful thought. If the present is one of those times when the mists hang thick and puzzling, and you cannot sight land no matter how eagerly you strain your eyes, can you not rest yourself on that, and wait?

Workers and Fussers

There was a long, steep grade ahead of the train, and so it was switched into a yard and shunted back and forth, while an extra engine was attached.

The cars creaked and groaned and seemed to be telling each other about the long climb ahead, and commiserating themselves for the hard, steady work that lay in front of them.

But the engine puffed smoothly and busily about. It slid backward and forward over the shining steel rails noiselessly, giving now and then a short burst of energy, or perhaps it was of indignation, at the complaints of the cars.

For which was it, after all, that did the work? The engine really bore the brunt of the labor required for that steep up-climb. It was the one that would toll and puff, and put forth every ounce of strength it had to get the train over the grade. The cars really did nothing but be pulled. Yet listening to their creaks and groans, one might think it was the cars that did all the work, and that for the engine it was simply a joy-ride.

Haven't you seen lots of people like that?—Don't you find them all about you, in your home, in your office, back of the counter with you? The ones who do the least will talk and complain, and groan over the work they do. The ones who do the most, are too busy hustling to utter a sound.

Which gets the most pleasure out of her work? The one who really does something and enters into the doing of it with vim? Or the one who actually does little, and groans and whines over that little?

Surely it is more worth while to be the engine who accomplishes something than the cars who are tamely pulled along. Surely it is more fun to put forth your muscle and climb the mountain, to feel that you are conquering obstacles, than it is simply to raise your voice in lamentations when you see a steep grade ahead.

This drooping shoulder line will be the proper thing. Long sleeves and accorcion, Crepe de chine promises to be the most popular of fabrics. German Coffee Cake

Made Without Yeast

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine.

There is no warm bread quite as appropriate for Sunday morning breakfast as German Coffee Cake; yet it is seldom made by housewives who do not bake their own bread. If K C double raise Baking Powder is used it will be just as good as if raised with yeast and it will have the further advantage of being fresh and warm. Save this recipe and try it next Sunday.

K C German Coffee Cake

Two and one-fourth cups sifted flour; 8 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1 level teaspoonful salt; 2 tablespoonfuls melted butter; 3 tablespoonfuls sugar; 1 egg; milk.

Sift dry ingredients together, beat the egg, add milk and butter to the egg, make one and one-quarter cups; stir all together with inverted spoon to a stiff batter. Turn into greased pan and spread evenly. Brush top lightly with melted butter. Sprinkle sugar and ground cinnamon over the top. Bake in moderate oven.

Dutch Apple Cake or Prune Kuchen can be made with this same batter by covering the top with pared and sliced apples, or cooked prunes with the pits removed, skin sides down. Drizzle with sugar and cinnamon the same as for Coffee Cake.

"The Cook's Book" contains 90 just such delicious recipes. You can secure a copy free by sending the colored certificate packed in 25-cent cans of K C Baking Powder to the Jacques McMillan Co., Chicago, being sure to write your name and address plainly.

USE OF SUGAR.

A reader asks whether the advice of such eminent authority as Professor Hutchinson, of London, author of a standard work on Diet, and the results of German army experiments, favoring the use of sugar in the form of candy or otherwise, is to be followed or that of many physicians who say that sugar is to be entirely excluded from the diet. As in many such cases both are correct, depending upon conditions. Dr. Hutchinson advises football players to use sugar freely during periods of rest and Dr. Goulston recently advised the use of sugar in heart disease (British Medical Journal, March, 1911). When, however, the body is fully supplied with carbohydrate sugar cannot be utilized and tends to develop a catarrhal condition of stomach and intestine. But when one is exercising vigorously there is a need for quickly oxidized carbohydrate and sugar is then not particularly injurious as a rule, altho it would in all cases be better to obtain the supply of sweet from honey, or the sugar fruits or maple sugar rather than from cane sugar. The practice of eating candy excessively by persons who are overfed and inactive cannot be too strongly condemned, and the mixing of sugar with heavy foods like meat, beans, and even cereals, in considerable quantity is always injurious.

CONGREGATIONALISTS IN HOME GATHERING

OVER THREE HUNDRED PRESENT
AT ANNUAL MEETING HELD
LAST EVENING.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Reports Show Strength in Church—
Program Given in Auditorium
After Serving of Dinner.

More than three hundred members of the First Congregational church attended the annual home gathering held at the church last evening, renewed acquaintances and made new ones at an informal reception in the church parlors, were served a dinner prepared by the ladies of the congregation, and enjoyed a program in the auditorium, a portion of which consisted of the reading of the annual reports and the election of new officers for the ensuing year.

The history of the last parish year was read by Miss Mary Buckmaster and covered every phase of church activity in a very interesting manner. Among the improvements in the church building noted were the re-decorating of the rear stairway and upper Sunday school room, the installation of new lights in the parlor downstairs, the repairing and resumption of use of the echo organ, the placing of a memorial window costing $250 and a brass plate on which are recorded the names of fifty-seven departed members of the Ladies' Benevolent Society, and the presentation of a pulpit chair by the Young Ladies' Bible class. Graded lessons have been introduced into the Sunday school. The history included a recital of the births and deaths of the year, the activities of the different church societies, and the various social affairs. The marriages of the year were announced by the novel method of questions addressed by the historian and answered by members of the congregation.

The report of the nominating committee, presented by A. E. Matheson was adopted unanimously and the following officers were declared elected.

Senior deacon—H. C. Huell.
Junior deacons—O. D. Bates, Frank J. Lowth, Peter Jamieson, J. A. Craig.
Church clerk—J. M. Whitehead.
Church treasurer—Ella DeLaun.
Assistant Sunday School superintendent—Charles H. Lange.
Historian—Miss Ida Green.
Auditor—F. A. Taylor.

Sunday School committee—O. E. Oestreich, George F. Kimball, F. S. Sheldon, Fred Woodruff, Mrs. Margaret O'Brien.

The committee made no nomination for the position of Sunday School superintendent and asked to be given more time.

John M. Whitehead presented the annual report of the church. It was shown that the congregation had donated the sum of $715.95 for the support of foreign missions, $614.32 for home missions. Sunday school receipts totaled $220.55. The total enrollment in the Sunday school was 230; officers 5; senior teachers 19; primary teachers 6; average attendance 178. Reports were also submitted by the Covenant Club, the Woman's Club and the Ladies' Benevolent Society.

The Rev. Dr. Beaton, pastor of the church, gave a brief address on the "Church in Modern Life." In opening his address the doctor stated that he did not desire to look at the church as a clergyman, but as a man and a citizen. He tried to consider and appreciate differing points of view in order that he might think clearly, accurately and sanely.

"The church, if it is to keep its place, to carry out the purposes for which it was founded and be a leaven in society, must keep abreast of the times. Church members must be neighborly with their fellow citizens and be active and aggressive in political and social life. The church must be organized for efficiency. One of the great objects of an organized church is to create and awaken a large number of interests, so that each man and woman within it will have a field for their activity, a special interest to which they will devote their time and labor and enthusiasm. The church should recognize, to its own application, the last word in artistic expression, that each man's work shall be the expression of his own personality.

The quartet contributed two very pleasing selections to the program.

MOST SICKNESS COMES FROM WEAK, INACTIVE KIDNEYS

Recent Reports Show Hundreds Suffer With Kidney Troubles and Don't Know It.

There are scores of nervous, tired, run-down people throughout the city, suffering with pains in the back and sides, dizzy spells, weaknesses of the bladder, (frequently causing annoyance at night) who fail to realize the seriousness of their troubles—until such conditions as rheumaticism, bladder troubles, dropsy, diabetes, or even Bright's disease result.

All this is due to weak, inactive kidneys. The kidneys are the filters of the blood, and no one can be well and healthy unless the kidneys work properly. It is even more important than that the bowels move regularly.

If you suffer with such symptoms don't neglect yourself another day and run the risk of serious complications. Secure an original package of the new discovery, Croxone, which costs but a trifle, and commence its

BROTHER JOSEPH WAS VERY MUCH ALIVE ON JAN. TWENTY-FIFTH

Writes to the Gazette on That Date
Discussing Statement of General Wood.

That Brother Joseph Dutton, reported as having died at his favorite home in the Hawaiian Islands, early in January, was alive and in his usual good health, is evidenced by a letter received at the Gazette office on February 6th, dated January 25 last, almost a week after his reported death. He makes no reference to the reported story of his demise, doubtless not having heard of it as yet, but takes up the discussion of the defenses of the Hawaiian Islands and the statement of General Wood relative to it, enclosing the following article for publication.

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)
Los Angeles, Oct. 25.—(Special to The Advertiser)—With a view to inspecting the fortifications of San Diego, Major General Leonard Wood left there for that city tonight. During his stay in Los Angeles, General Wood made several impromptu talks at entertainments given in his honor. The general advocated stronger fortifications and a larger and better equipped national guard for California.

"Few United States citizens realize the danger to our insular possessions," said General Wood today. "None of them is threatened now, but it may come any day. There is nothing to hinder a foreign power seizing Hawaii and then making an attack on the Pacific coast. It is our sacred duty to teach as many citizens of the United States as we can to carry arms."

"General Wood I suppose will contradict this version. The heavy works are under way, according to plans decided upon after many surveys and inspections by numerous officers of high rank ever having in view the improbability of the works and the indubitable safety of Honolulu and the island of Oahu, in all of which General Wood has been the prime mover since he became chief of staff. He may have qualified his statement as to other islands. The plans for them, if there be any, are not public yet.

"Anyway, with oaken works completed and fully manned and 'womanized,' an enemy would have rather 'hard sledding' on the other islands, seems to me. No supplies, great difficulty in landing save at a very few places. The navy could attack at that I should say, with the headquarters at Pearl Harbor, one of the finest in the world—big dry-dock, solid works of all sorts, and great buildings filled with supplies. If the Los Angeles dispatch is not repudiated, it is likely to make an unpleasant impression here and one of maybe different sort in Japan."

"Without having a naval base here, no navy now existing can reach the California coast. For this Uncle Sam holds it. By no navy now existing I mean of course that no considerable navy now constructed can reach the California coast in a fit condition for active work without a base such as this."

TWO WERE INVOLVED IN CHICKEN THEFTS

Ed. Christensen and William Lennon Plead Guilty to Similar Charges
—Stories Differ Widely.

Systematic thefts of chickens from two different farms, that of E. W. Fisher in the town of Rock, and that of Alfred Austin in the town of Hartman, were brought to light this morning when Ed. Christensen and William Lennon were arraigned in the municipal court before Judge T. Field. Christensen, arrested yesterday morning, plead guilty to stealing that day twelve chickens worth $561 from the farm of E. W. Fisher, and William Lennon, arrested later in the day, plead guilty to the theft of eight chickens from the Austin farm on Saturday, Jan. 11. Each was given the alternative of paying a fine of $25 and costs, amounting to $27.70, or going to jail for twenty-seven days. Christensen said he could make arrangements to pay his fine.

The stories told by the two men were very dissimilar. Christensen not only admitted the offense charged, but also confessed that he had also taken six chickens from the Fisher farm on Wednesday morning, and that on Jan. 11, while he was in the employ of Alfred Austin, he stole a number of chickens from his flock, acting on the suggestion and as the accomplice of William Lennon. The chickens were delivered to a Janesville butcher but nothing was received for them as they had been smothered in the sacks in which they were conveyed. He had also made a second theft there, Lennon, he said, had no part in the thefts at the Fisher farm.

Lennon's story was to the effect that he was invited to go to the Austin farm by Christensen for the purpose of having a game of cards. After the evening's entertainment was over Christensen had said that he was going to leave the place and that he was going to take his chickens with him and dispose of them. Lennon helped him to pick up the chickens in the hen-house but never suspected that he was a party to a theft.

At the request of Frank Fisher, who made out the complaint against Christensen, the sentence passed upon him was made light although his repeated offenses deserved a more severe penalty. Christensen had never been in court before and is reputed to be a steady, hard worker and not addicted to drink.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

EARS.
(By Howard L. Raan.)

The ear is a small, eager receptacle which is hung on one side of the head, in a handy place to catch the drift of a private conversation. All ears are not hung alike, some standing erect in an alert and aggressive attitude, while others have a pensive, broken, spirited, croon like an eggplant in a wreath.

The ear is situated within speaking distance of the brain, which it feeds with one hand while raising in a spray language with the other. If it were not for the ear, the brain would have to live on literary masterpieces and other solids instead of being fed several times a day on gaseous gossip and white-haired jokes.

The ear is an elastic object and can open and shut faster than a snapshot lens. When a person does not want to hear an evil about his neighbor, all he has to do is close his left ear and think about something which will not turn sour. The ear can be trained so that a man can lie in bed in the morning and hear his wife yelling for soft coal for the kitchen range without sensing what is going on.

On the other hand, a person with a cultivated ear can stand in one corner of a room and hear somebody out in the conservatory making love to his wife in a honeyed whisper. Some ears are constructed like an extension fire ladder and are able to reach out into the hall and detect the approaching footsteps of an overdue bill, defaulting payment by climbing into a clothes locker. This is a great convenience, and has enabled many a man to keep up a bold front on rarefied ozone.

People are said to have an ear for music when they can tell the opening overture from the tuning fork. It is a great thing to have a musical ear whose foot will not slip at the critical moment and confuse a Chopin prelude with the Lohengrin wedding march.

Ears would be used more than they are at present of there was less puff in the atmosphere. An ornamental ear, which can be hermetically sealed against loose gabble, is a priceless possession.

The STOLEN SINGER

by MARTHA BELLINGER

COPYRIGHT 1911 THE DOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

He telegraphed Aleck, who was by this time running down the eyellid of the squid, to meet him at his club in New York. Then he made short work with the family. Experience had taught him that an attack from ambush was most successful.

"Look here, Edith"—this was at the breakfast-table the very morning of his departure. Edith was sixteen, the tallest girl in the academy, almost ready for college and reckoned quite a queen in her world—"You be good and do my chores for me while I'm away, and I'll bring you home a duke. Take care of mother's bronchitis and keep the house straight. I'm going on a cruise."

"All right, Jim"—Edith could always be counted on to catch the ball—"go ahead and have a bully time and don't drown yourself. I'll drive the team straight to water, mother and dad and the whole outfit, trust me!"

Considering the occasion and the correctness of the sentiments, Jim forbore, for once, from making the daily suggestion that she chasten her language. By the time the family appeared, Jim had laid out a rigid course of action for Miss Edith, who rose to the occasion like a soldier.

"Mother! miss you, of course," but Jack and Harold—two of Edith's admirers—"Jack and Harold can come around every day—stout arm to lean upon, that sort of thing. You know mother can't be a bit jolly without plenty of men about, and since Sue became engaged she really doesn't count. The boys will think they are running things, of course, but they'll see my iron hand in the velvet glove—you can throw a blue chip on that, Jim. And don't kiss me, Jim, for Dorothy Snell and I vowed, when we wished each other swans on—Oh, well, brothers don't count."

And so, amid the farewells of a tender, protesting family, he got off, leaving Edith in the midst of one of her monologues.

There was a telegram in New York saying that Aleck Van Camp would join him in three days, at the latest. Hambleton disliked the club and left it, although his first intention had been to put up there. He picked out a modest, up-town hotel, now to him, for no other reason than that it had a pretty name, The Lure. Then he began to consider details.

The day after his arrival was occupied in making arrangements for his boat. He put into this matter the same painstaking buoyancy that he had put into a dull business for twelve years. He changed his plans half a dozen times, and exceeded them wholly in the size and equipment of the little vessel, and in the consequent expense, but he justified himself, as men will, by a dozen good reasons. The trig little sail-boat turned out to be a respectable yacht, steam, at that. She was called the Sea Gull. Neat in the beam, stanch in the bows, rigged for coasting and provided with a decent living outfit, she was "good enough for any gentleman," in the opinion of the agent who rented her. Jim was half ashamed at giving up the more robust scheme of sailing his own boat, with Aleck; but some vague and expansive spirit moved him "to see," as he said, "what it would be like to go as far and as fast as we please." While they were about it, they would call on some cousins at Bar Harbor and get good fun out of it.

The idea of his holiday grew as he played with it. As his spin took on a more complicated character, his zest rose. He went forth on Sunday feeling as if some vital change was impending. His little cruise loomed as large, important, epochal. He laughed at himself and thought, with his customary optimism, that a vacation was worth waiting twelve years for, if waiting endowed it with such a flavor. Jim knew that Aleck would relish the spin, too. Aleck's nature was that of a grind tempered with sportiness. Jim sat down Sunday morning and wrote out the whole program for Aleck's endorsement, sent the letter by special delivery and went out to reconnoiter.

The era of Sunday orchestral concerts had begun, but that day, to Jim's regret, the singer was not a contralto. "Dramatic Soprano" was on the program; a new name, quite unknown to Jim. His interest in the soloist waned, but the orchestra was enough. He thanked Heaven that he was past the primitive stage of thinking any single voice more interesting than the assemblage of instruments known as orchestra.

Hambleton found a place in the dim vastness of the hall, and sank into his seat in a mood of vivid anticipation. The instruments twanged, the audience gathered, and at last the music began. Its first effect was to rouse Hambleton to a sharp attention to details—the director, the people in the orchestra, the people in the boxes; and then he settled down, thinking his thoughts. The past, the future, life and its meaning, love and its power, the long, long thoughts of youth and ambition and desire came flooding to his brain. The noble confluence of sound that is music worked upon him its immemorial miracle; his heart softened, his imagination glowed, his spirit stirred. Time was lost to him—and earth.

The orchestra ceased, but Hambleton did not heed the commotion about him. The pause and the fresh beginning of the strings scarcely disturbed his ecstatic reverie. A deep hush lay upon the vast assemblage, broken only by the voices of the violins. And then, in the zone of silence that lay over the listening people—silence that vibrated to the memory of the strings—there rose a little song. To Hambleton, sitting absorbed, it was as if the circuit which galvanized him into life had suddenly been completed. He sat up. The singer's lips were slightly parted, and her voice at first was no more than the half-voice of a flute, sweet, gentle, beguiling. It was borne upward on the crest of the melody, fuller and fuller, as on a flooding tide.

"Free of my pain, free of my burden of At last I shall see thee—"

There was freedom in the voice, and the sense of space, of wind on the waters, of life and the love of life.

Jim was a soft-hearted fellow. He never knew what happened to him; but after uncounted minutes he seemed to be choking, while the orchestra and the people in boxes and the singer herself swam in a hazy distance. He shook himself, called somebody he knew very well an idiot, and laughed aloud in his joy; but his laugh did not matter, for it was drowned in the roar of applause that reached the roof.

Jim did not applaud. He went outdoors to think about it; and after a time he found, to his surprise, that he could recall not only the song, but the singer, quite distinctly. It was a tall, womanly figure, and a fair, bright face framed abundantly with dark hair, and the least little humorous twitch to her lips. And her name was Agatha Redmond.

"Of course, she can sing; but it isn't like having the real thing—tint—tint—tint," said Jim's ungratefully and just from habit.

The day's experience filled his thoughts and quieted his restlessness. He awaited Aleck with entire patience. Monday morning he spent in small necessary business affairs, securing, among other things, several hundred dollars, which he put in his money-belt. About the middle of the afternoon he left his hotel, engaged a taxicab and started for Riverside. The late summer day was fine, with the afternoon haze settling over river and town. He watched the procession of carriages, the horseback riders, the people afoot, the children playing on the grass, with a feeling of comradeship. Was he not also tasting freedom—a lord of the earth? His gaze traveled out to the river, with the glimmer here and there of a tug-boat, a little steamer, or the white sail of a pleasure craft. The blood of some seagoing ancestor stirred in his veins, and he thrilled at the thought of the days to come when his prow should be headed offshore.

The taxicab had its limitations, and Hambleton suddenly became impatient of its monotonous sithering along the firm road. Telling the driver to follow him, he descended and crossed to where Cathedral Parkway switches off. He walked briskly, feeling the tonic of the sea air, and circling the cathedral, where workmen were lugging away after their day's toil. The unfinished edifice loomed up like a giant skeleton of some prehistoric era, and through its mighty open arches and buttresses Jim saw sooty clouds scudding across the western sky. A stone saint, muffled in burial, had just been swung up into his windy niche, but had not yet discarded his robes of the world. Hambleton was regarding the shapeless figure with mild interest, wondering which saint of the calendar could look so grotesque, when a sound drew his attention sharply to earth. It was a small sound, but there was something strange about it. It was starting as a flash in a summer sky.

Besides the workmen, there was no living thing in sight on the hillside except his own taxicab, swinging slowly up the avenue at that moment, and a covered motor-car getting up speed a square away. Even as the car approached, Hambleton decided that the strange sound had proceeded from its ambushed tonneau; and it was, surely, a human voice of distress. He stepped forward to the curb. The car was upon him, then lumbered heavily and swiftly past. But on the instant of its passing there appeared, beneath the lifted curtain and quite near his own face, the face of the singer of yesterday; and from pale, agonized lips, as if with dying breath, she cried, "Help, help!"

Hambleton knew her instantly, although the dark abundance of her hair was almost lost beneath hat and flowing veil, and the bright, humorous expression was blotted out by fear. He stood for a moment rooted to the curb, watching the dark mass of the car as it swayed down the hill. Then he beckoned sharply to his driver, met the taxicab half way, and pointed to the disappearing machine.

"Quick! Can you overtake it?" "I'd like nothing better than to run down one of them Dook machines!" said the driver.

CHAPTER III.

Midsummer Madness.

The driver of the taxicab proved to be a sound sport.

Five minutes of luck, aided by nerve, brought the two machines somewhat nearer together. The motor-car gained in the open spaces, the taxicab caught up when it came to weaving its way in and out and dodging the trolleys. At the frequent moments when he appeared to be losing the car, Hambleton reflected that he had its number, which might lead to something. At the Waldorf the car slowed up, and the cab came within a few yards. Hambleton made up his mind at that instant that he had been mistaken in his supposition of trouble threatening the lady, and looked momentarily to see her step from the car into the custody of those starched and lacquered menials who guard the portals of fashionable hotels.

WILL NOT BLISTER

But it was so. A signal was interchanged between the occupants of the car and some watcher in the doorway, and the car sped on. Hambleton, watching steadily, wondered, "If she is being kidnapped, why doesn't she make somebody hear? Plenty of chances. They couldn't have killed her—that isn't done."

And yet his heart smote him as he remembered the terror and distress written on that countenance and the cry for help.

"Something was the matter," memory insisted. "There they go west, west Tenth, Alexander Street, Tenth Avenue—"

The car lumbered on, the cab half a block, often more, in the rear, through endless regions of small shops and offices huddled together above narrow sidewalks, through narrow and winding streets paved with cobblestones, and jammed with cars and trucks, squeezing past curbs where dirty children sat playing within a few inches of death-dealing wheels. Hambleton wondered what kept them from being killed by hundreds daily, but the wonder was immediately forgotten in a new subject for thought. This cab had stopped, although several yards of clear road lay ahead of it. The driver was climbing down. The motor-car was nosing its way along nearly a block ahead. Hambleton leaned out.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher.

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthews Adams BY WALT MASON

John Milton's greatest nobility, some was sold for fifty bucks; he sadly took the money home, and to his wife said: "Shucks! This thing of singing deathless strains is vain, so help me John; there's less reward for poet's brains than there's for teamster's brawn. You should have wed a plutocrat, dear housewife."

BETTER TIMES NOW

In the past; you'll have to do without a hat this spring, as you did last. The girls must wear their old print gowns—I trust they'll dance and sing—and I must wear the hand-me-downs I bought when James was king. The modern poet gambols home, that home with laughter fills. He says: "I sold that misfit poem about Dobun's pills. I have an order for a rhyme concerning Jimcor's salve; and now, my dear, a bully time we're surely ought to have. Go blow yourself for gaudy rags, and give the kids a treat, for joyously the old world wags, and I'm on Easy street."

QUIT CALOMEL

Thousands Are Turning From This Dangerous Drug.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute Is Olive Tablets for the Liver

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a new laxative and liver toner in a combination of vegetable materials; mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like the old and untrustworthy calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers. His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him years ago towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he is today in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, Olive-oil calomel tablet.

The results of 17 years' experience, and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They oil the bowels, and their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

They are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the "system" of harmful impurities. 10c and 25c per box.

She Had Consumption, Was Dying; Now Well

Eckman's Alternative is being used with success in the treatment of Tuberculosis in all parts of the country. Persons who have given it, improved, gained weight, exhausted that sweets stopped, fever diminished, and many recovered. If you are interested to know more about it, we will put you in touch with some who are well. You can investigate and judge for yourself. Read of Mrs. Gove's recovery.

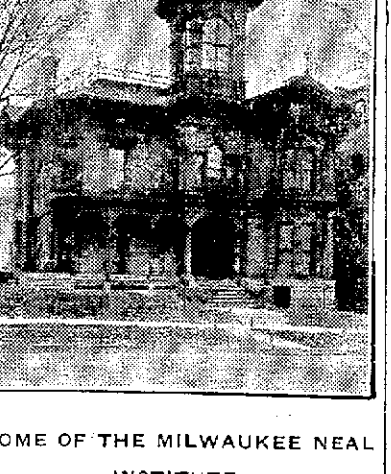

"Gentlemen: Thinking that perhaps a short history of the remarkable recovery of my mother-in-law (Mrs. Anna Gove) might benefit some other sufferers, I give the following testimonial: About September 10, 1908, she was taken sick with Catarrhal pneumonia, and continued to grow worse, requiring a trained nurse. Night sweats were so bad that it was necessary to change her clothing once or twice every night; her cough increased and got so bad that everybody expected that she would not live much longer. In January, when Rev. Wm. Berg, of St. Michael's Church, at Shoreville, Ind., preached for her death, he recommended that I get Eckman's Alternative, and see if it would not give her some relief. I then requested the attending physician to give her diagnosis and he informed me that she had Consumption and was beyond all medical aid. When I asked if he thought that sweets were useful to try the Alternative, he replied that no physician could help her any and I could suit myself about it. So, I immediately had Rev. Wm. Berg send for a bottle. Proudly without hope for recovery, I studied that she try the Alternative, which she did. I am glad to say that she soon began to improve. Now, she works as hard as ever, weighs twenty pounds heavier than she ever did before she took sick, and is in good health. She frankly says she owes her life and health to Eckman's Alternative."

(Signed) Adeline J. GRIMMER.

Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Trouble, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet (telling of recoveries) and write to Eckman Laboratories, Philadelphia, Pa., for more evidence.

Stop That Cough In A Minute

Would you give morphine or chloroform to your baby or take it yourself? Of course not. Yet most patent cough cures contain one or both. They stop a cough in a minute, which is dangerous. A cough should be cured internally by healing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, throwing it out, which is done by coughing. Badger Cough Balsam does not contain morphine or chloroform. It is made by percolation from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. It's safe for children or old people. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Badger Cough Balsam is made by Mr. Pfening, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts.
